

STEM Advocacy Conference of Texas

“Giving Texas High School Students a Voice in Their STEM Education”

The STEM Advocacy Conference of Texas is a high school-based program that brings together like-minded students throughout Texas to advocate for increased government funding and support for STEM-aligned educational activities.

What does SACOT do?

- Educate state, local, and school governments about the importance of STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, and Math)
- Give a voice to underserved communities
- Advocate for legislation to spread STEM
- Organize and represent the opinions of high school students about STEM
- Host an annual conference meeting with Texas legislators
